Committee approves rifle ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee voted Thursday to outlaw mail-order sales of shotguns and rifles and to clamp tight controls over the sale of all ammunition.

Responding to the national outcry for gun controls following the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the committee voted 29 to 6 in favor of the legislation.

Only last week it deadlocked 16-to-16 on the same measure and never before has it been able to muster a majority for such a bill.

The Senate Judiciary Committee also was scheduled to act on the legislation Thursday but postponed its vote until next Thursday because several senators were absent.

The House committee acted about 15 hours after President Johnson signed into law an anti-crime bill containing a ban against mail-order sales of handguns and urged Congress to extend the prohibition to shotguns and rifles.

Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., wheeled into the committee room a shopping cart that was spilling over with what he described as mail demanding strict gun controls.

All 15 committee Republicans voted for the bill. Last week only two supported it. The six votes against it were cast by Southern Democrats: Reps. Robert T. Ashmore of South Carolina, Jack B. Brooks of Texas, John Dowdy of Texas, William M. Tuck of Virginia, Basil L. Whitener of North Carolina and Edwin E. Willis of Louisiana.

Gun deaths reach 89 since Monday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Guns have killed 89 persons in the United States since midnight Sunday, an Associated Press survey shows.

Of the total, 45, were homicides, 34 suicides and 10 accidental shootings.

The FBI has reported that approximately 6,500 persons were slain by guns in 1966—an average of 125 homicides by gun per week. Total homicides in 1966 totaled 10,920, the FBI said, including stabbings and stranglings.

Twelve persons have been killed by guns in Texas during the current counting period, eight homicides and four suicides. One Texas man was slain as he struggled with a woman in a parked car in Houston. Another was shot when he grew violent trying to borrow money. Michigan and Illinois have six gun deaths each during the period.

Negroes expand efforts

CR only one issue with minorities

By DAVID OTTAWAY

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The June 19 Solidarity Day march for the Poor People's Campaign demonstrated dramatically the profound changes that have taken place in what was originally known as the Civil Rights Movement.

When the late Dr. Martin Luther King stood before some 200,000 Americans assembled in Washington in August 1963, he made a pressing appeal for equal justice for the 20 million Negroes in the country.

Civil Rights was the sum and substance of his speech; his great dream was of a society in which the sons of former slaves and the sons of former slaveowners would sit down at the same table together.

Poor People's campaigners turned to mass civil disobedience Thursday, sparking scores of arrests during a demonstration at the Agriculture Dept. Police used tear gas when the protesters, returning to Resurrection City, began throwing rocks, bottles and sticks at them.

Man aiding policeman makes supreme sacrifice — his son

GRACEVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A dairy worker aiding a wounded policeman paid what a police chief Thursday called "the supreme price" for getting involved: His son was taken hostage by a mental patient and shot to death.

The mental patient, a sawmill worker home on his sixth furlough from the state hospital, also was wounded.

Joseph E. McCants, 29, was tracked down in an Alabama forest just across the nearby state line three hours after he wrested a gun from Patrolman Horace Patterson and shot the officer in the head, Graceville Police Chief Clyde Pelham said.

Between the first shooting and his capture, police said, McCants wrecked four motor vehicles, stole another gun, and robbed two persons.

The dead boy, Francis Lee Fortune, 3, was found by police at the edge of the woods where McCants was captured. Officers chasing McCants said he carried the child under his arm and then tossed the body aside as he ducked into the trees. McCants surrendered moments later.

McCants was charged late Thursday with first degree murder of the Fortune child, two counts of armed robbery and two counts of assault to murder, according to William G. Baxley, district attorney in Houston County, Ala.

"We're alleging that he shot the child," Baxley said.

Alabama State Investigator J. R. Pate said an autopsy showed the boy died from one shot through the back of his head. The bullet was not recovered.

Virgil Fortune, 33, manager of Price's Dairy, was passing McCants' home in a truck when he saw McCants struggling with Patterson, who had come to arrest him on a disorderly conduct warrant, Pelham said.

"He heard Patterson calling for help," Pelham said. "He left the children in the truck, telling them to lay on the floorboards."

"He did all he could. He risked his life, and suffered losing a child and two others injured. That's the supreme price to help a police officer," the chief said.

Fortune's employer, R. L. Price Jr., said, "He's just that kind of fellow. He did what he thought was the right thing to do."

Leaving his children in the truck in care of a woman bystander, police said, Fortune drove Patterson to a hospital.

HHH won't attack Vietnam policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey declined Thursday to repudiate the administration's Vietnam policy. But he stressed that as president he would be captain of his own team with "its own sense of direction, its own perspective, its own objectives."

"Every conductor of an orchestra makes his own music with the same musicians, but it's different music," Humphrey told the National Press Club in his first major speaking engagement since the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"Hubert Humphrey as vice president is a member of a team," the vice president continued, elaborating on his own theme. "Hubert Humphrey as president is captain of the team."

But Humphrey, in obvious answer to widespread speculation that he would retreat from the administration's war policy in his party, said, "One does not repudiate his family in order to establish his own identity."

Humphrey declared also that he had not talked to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy—or anyone else—about taking the vice presidential place on a Humphrey ticket.

House passes 10 per cent tax increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed Thursday the long-fought bill to increase by 10 per cent the income tax take and to impose a $6-billion spending cut.

The long-embattled bill passed on a 269-150 roll call.

The vote was a bittersweet victory for President Johnson. He urgently sought the added revenue, more than $15 billion from the surcharge and accompanying tax changes, to fight inflation and bolster the dollar.

But he sought almost to the end to scale down the $6-billion mandatory spending cut Congress attached to it.

The Senate is scheduled to vote about noon Friday.

Agriculture target of protests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poor People's campaigners staged their first extensive acts of civil disobedience Thursday, jamming evening rush-hour traffic at several busy intersections and blocking entrances to the Department of Agriculture headquarters building.

The demonstrations by some 300 persons were carried on in the absence of top campaign leaders, who arrived afterward to cool the crowd and send most of them back to their encampment at Resurrection City.

Washington's deputy police chief, Jerry V. Wilson, said at least 65 persons were arrested and at least two were taken to hospitals.

As about 250 demonstrators arrived back at their encampment near the Lincoln Memorial, police fired at least one tear gas bomb. Witnesses said the group had become unruly crossing the last street before they arrived at the camp.

At least two demonstrators who got heavy doses of the tear gas were taken away in the camp's ambulance. The camp loudspeaker appealed to all residents to return to their tents.

Earlier, the protesters staged sudden, hit-and-run sit-down demonstrations in the streets and halted traffic briefly. A heavy force of District of Columbia police moved in quickly and dragged them to the curbs.

Disorder began at the Department of Agriculture, where the campaigners had been demonstrating on an around-the-clock basis. Their vigil was interrupted briefly by Wednesday's big Solidarity Day march in support of the campaign.

The protesters sat down at entrances to the sprawling complex and kept people from entering or leaving.

Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Joseph Robertson said he asked city police to clear the entrances.

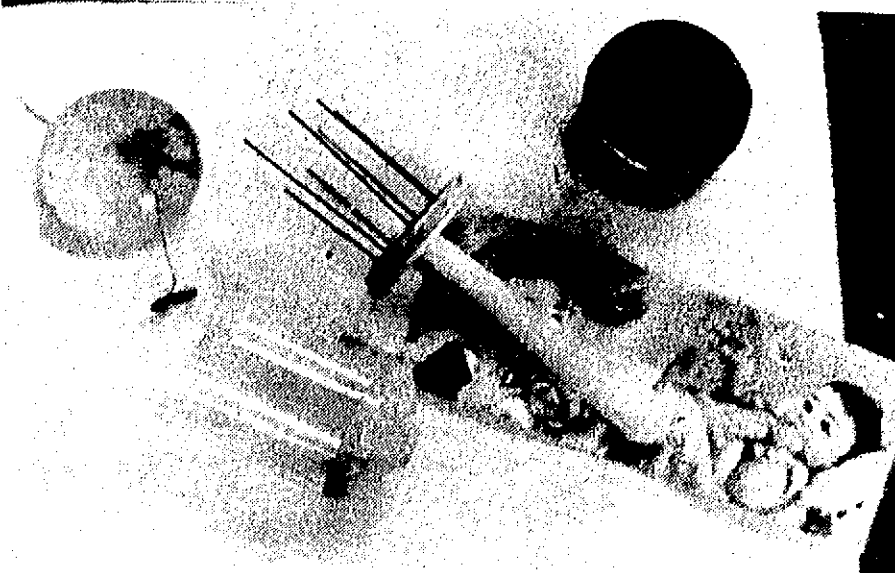

The police picked up the protesters gently and put them in police vans and buses, methodically moving from entrance to entrance. All was calm.

Then, other demonstrators began sitting in the street at Independence Avenue and 12th Street. The police rushed in and hauled them off.

Just as the situation appeared under control, a new group of demonstrators arrived, led by a charging group of youths. Police threw them back in a brief confrontation that looked like it might turn into a mass melee.

But some of the new protesters quickly held up their arms to calm the group shouting "all right." Most of the new group then left, and staged similar sit-downs at three other intersections nearby.

Later, all the demonstrators—at least 300—regrouped on the other side.

Clifford: talks may get better

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford, reporting "some movement" in the Paris talks on Vietnam, suggested Thursday those U.S.-North Vietnamese sessions may be moving out of the public propaganda stage toward private negotiation.

Clifford, one of President Johnson's key advisers on Vietnam policy, told a news conference: "When we get to the stage that private talks are taking place... then I believe we will begin to make some progress."

Meanwhile, the defense secretary reported that "North Vietnam has chosen to increase the flow of men and materiel" into South Vietnam in a bid to put pressure on U.S. negotiators in Paris.

The price, he said, has been an increase in both U.S. and enemy casualties into a range of 400 to 500 a week in American losses and close to 5,000 a week in Viet Cong and North Vietnamese battle deaths.

"There is a very real question as to how long they would choose to submit their military force to this extreme degree of attrition," Clifford said.

In May, Clifford said, it is estimated that infiltration from the North into South Vietnam totaled some 29,000 men.

This is nearly twice the 15,000 infiltration figure for April cited recently by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, outgoing U.S. commander in Vietnam.

Baby's rattle called 'deadly'

STROUDSBURG — An East Stroudsburg family has deliberately destroyed a child's musical rattle after it was discovered the toy was dangerous. Local stores stocking the toy item were notified and will remove the item.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Burns of 41 Ransberry Ave., East Stroudsburg, received two musical rattles during a baby shower.

After reading reports of similar rattles being declared dangerous by the Consumer Service Office in Philadelphia area, Mr. Burns examined the two rattles and found them both to be of the same "deadly" assembly described as:

"A small child's rattle, known as 'Chime Rattle No. 320,' of plastic and cardboard material housing seven sharp pins or wires, ranging in size from 1/2 to 3 inches long, attached vertically from the base and handle.

The pins create the chimes. Further identification says it is a "Protect-O-Product"; some have the inscription "A Walt Disney Production" when cartoon characters are used; others use baby pictures with a "K" trademark. All models are reported made in Japan.

Mrs. Burns said the child did not get hurt as it is still too small to handle it but feared that an older child, about six months, as in the Philadelphia case could easily be injured.

Consumer Services in Philadelphia investigated the local complaint and had traced that purchase to a John's Bargain Store. The executive vice president of the store chain was contacted and the item was identified by the official and removed from 18 Philadelphia chain stores.

A local survey also showed the item stocked by the John's Bargain Store in the Stroud Shopping Center. Robert Lake, manager of the local store, said he had two such chime rattles still on hand and would remove them until further examination is made with the main office.

Lake said he was not aware that the item was removed from sales in the Philadelphia area and was not contacted to do so locally.

"The item has been on the shelf since about Christmas time and no complaints have been reported on the baby rattle described as being dangerous," Lake said.

Robert Yager, district manager for "John's" said he was also not aware of the reports on the rattle but would immediately have all his stores remove the item.

Yager said these items are checked out before the retailer ever gets them for safety specifications by the U.S. Customs Bureau before they enter the country and also each state issues licenses to permit their sales.

Dying man given chance to perform

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Ernest L. Salaskis Jr. accomplished in death the "one thing great" he had hoped for in life. When the 22-year-old apprentice welder lost his life, victim of a weekend motorcycle accident, he helped prolong another.

For while he lay dying in one hospital, a 25-year-old Ohio woman lay in another across town, dying of a liver ailment.

Roylene Salaskis, 21, said doctors informed her of the Ohio woman's plight as she visited her husband Monday afternoon. They explained that the woman could not live without a transplant, she said.

Mrs. Salaskis said her husband had always wanted to do "one thing great" in his life. "You know, people usually have a goal," she said. "This was his goal."

So, with the consent of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Salaskis Sr., she agreed that her husband's liver could be used in the transplant operation. Salaskis died early Tuesday, about 27 hours after the accident.

Doctors at the University of Colorado Medical Center, where the transplant was performed, did not identify the recipient, but said she was in fair condition following the surgery early Tuesday. In keeping with hospital policy, neither would they confirm that Salaskis was the donor.

Plane with 80 aboard taken to Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — A Venezuelan airliner with 80 persons aboard, including four Americans, was hijacked Thursday and forced to land at Santiago in eastern Cuba.

Reports from Santiago said a young man carrying a grenade commandeered Viasa Airlines' flight 797 from Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, and threatened to explode the grenade unless the plane landed.

The Swiss Embassy in Havana, which handles Venezuelan interests in Cuba, confirmed that the plane was hijacked and said it had been advised the DC9 jet would be allowed to take off soon.

people would not move from resurrection city when the campaign's license expires Sunday.

The new militancy of the march's leaders caught the eye of the press and public perhaps more than anything else. But just as dramatic was the change in the demands set forth.

Equal justice for American minorities was just one issue among many others. The list of demands includes such things as food for the needy, jobs, a guaranteed income, more funds for anti-poverty programs, reform of the welfare system, adequate housing, and an immediate end to the war in Vietnam.

What these changes in the old Civil Rights Movement add up to is not yet entirely clear.

with other minority group spokesman like Reies Lopez Tijerina, a Mexican-American, Gilberto G. Valentin, a Puerto Rican, Martha Grass, a Poncha Indian, and Mrs. Johnnie Tillman, a poor white.

Mrs. Grass, a spit-and-fire speaker who drew wide applause, pointed in any kind of organized demonstration with other minority groups. The same was true for the Mexican-Americans.

Mrs. Grass told of broken treaties made between Indians and the White Man, while Tijerina spoke of the violated 1848 Quadelupe-Hidalgo Treaty guaranteeing Mexican-Americans equal justice and land.

In the audience sat side by side Indians in leather breeches and head feathers, Puerto Ricans with colorful shirts, Mexican-Americans with wide sombreros, blacks in multi-colored African dress, and poor whites in tatters.

There were other significant differences between the 1963 and 1968 demonstrations. One was the change in tone.

"In 1963 we presented our petitions in dignity and in truth and then returned to our homes, while Congress made a mockery of our cause," said Abernathy.

"Today, we are presenting our demands again. But we do not intend to just present them and go home. Today — solidarity day — is not the end of the Poor People's Crusade. Today is rally only the beginning."

To underline his point, Abernathy announced the poor

Pike farm yield totals $122,400

Record Harrisburg Bureau — HARRISBURG — Crop production figures of the State Department of Agriculture have disclosed that Pike County farmers last year produced a total of 1,100 acres of corn valued at $122,400—the most valuable crop for farmers of the county.

Of the 1,100 acres of corn harvested in the county in 1967, records of the department show that 700 acres were harvested for grain and 400 acres for silage.

The average yield per acre for corn harvested for grain was 73 bushels—as compared with the statewide average of 88 bushels per acre. Corn harvested for silage rounded out to 15.8 tons per acre which was below the statewide average of 16 tons per acre.

Trinity Church celebrating 90th year

BANGOR — It was April 6, 1878 that Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Fourth and Broadway, was born. That makes this year the 90th anniversary.

Facts were uncovered recently as records concerning the old cemetery behind the church were being researched.

The year has been marked by the publication of a pictorial directory, reprinting the church, plans for parthen renovations and a parking lot, and the end of the construction debt for the parish building, which was added several years ago, and a new carillon.

During the 90 years, there have been just five pastors, two of whom still live. Rev. B. F. Apple, 1878-1885; E. A. Yehl, D.D., 1885-1916; D. F. Green, Ph.D., 1917-1933; J. P. Stolte, Ph.D., 1933-1951, and W. E. Dennis, 1951-1968.

Dr. Stolte came to Bangor four years before the present pastor was born.

Significant summer schedules in the 90th year will include the services June 3, when Rev. Horace Seiple Mann, now retired, will preach. Rev. Mann, son of the late Melvin P. Mann and Bertina Mann Hess, is the only son of the congregation who entered the ministry.

Rev. Dr. J. F. Stolte, pastor emeritus, will preach the first two Sundays in July. An anniversary communion Sunday will be held August 4.

Police find stolen auto

MARTINS CREEK — State Police at Easton are searching for the driver of a stolen car found damaged and abandoned in Martins Creek Tuesday.

Police said they were called to the scene on Pennsylvania Ave., Martins Creek, by area residents. They told police the car was found abandoned against a hedge but had apparently been damaged in an accident earlier.

Summer not all fun at Pleasant Valley

BRODHEADSVILLE — Summer is usually the time for long sought vacations by both teachers and students after regular school sessions, but then there are those individuals that continue with constructive efforts to supplement the leisure weeks of summer recess.

At Pleasant Valley School District emphasis is on both athletic, recreational and academic programs for both elementary and secondary pupils that want it and perhaps need it.

Harrie Blood, reading supervisor for the elementary has started a "developmental reading" program now in its second week which will continue for six weeks each weekday from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.

"I have four teachers besides myself," Blood explained. "Each teaching about 15 children." The emphasis is on the first graders with three teachers assigned to first and second graders of 33 children. One teacher is assigned for 15 third and fourth grades and one teacher for fifth and sixth grade, he explained.

Supporting teachers are regular term teachers who volunteer. They are: Larry Court, Virginia Bond, Sharon Kinkle and Kathy Snyder.

The program is in its second year and is geared to teach related language arts subjects such as various levels of reading, writing and critical listening, Blood said.

The program is supported by a federal grant under the Elementary-Secondary Education act.

At the high school, athletic director, Arthur A. Smith is supervising an athletic-recreational program for the summer months for grades four to 12 and adults.

The 10 week program runs for about three hours each weekday with an additional night program from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Smith also supervises regular driver training classes throughout the summer months for eligible high school students.

Bollinger was appointed to the Commission by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer and the Senate confirmed the appointment.

East Stroudsburg's future bright

If current plans materialize, even partially, East Stroudsburg will become one of the most thriving boroughs in the United States. It could become a model.

However, there are a great number of ifs, ands and buts between this point and successful completion of the many projects.

Finding a tenant for the Lincoln Ave. property, re-building the business district, development of housing and zoning projects, Courtland St. Plaza and widening and improvement of Crystal St. are only a few of the projects now under way, or at least in the planning stages.

Improvement of current water and sewage systems, construction of apartment houses and other projects make a lengthy list and form an ambitious project.

There are a great many cooperating organizations involved and the degree of cooperation is of major importance to all projects.

However, for the most part, the driving forces behind each and every one of the plans are East Stroudsburg people, starting with borough council, Mayor Thomas L. Kistler, King Beers, executive director of the Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County, and countless others.

Those playing key roles in the many projects now on the list appear to be genuinely interested in the various plans because they feel that they will in turn improve their home town.

But, we urge all concerned to walk carefully. Don't make any mistakes, or as few as possible. Guard against quick shuffles and smooth talkers.

Make every step count. After all, you're dealing with your home town and that's the most important place in the entire world.

Posters removed

A short time ago we complained about the unsightly conditions of areas in which campaign posters have been allowed to hang on telephone poles, trees and buildings, long after their usefulness.

We feel obligated at this time to report that most of these signs have been removed and shabby appearances have once again changed to ones of beauty and cleanliness.

Those responsible for placing the posters in view of the public, we believe, have made a concentrated effort to remove the unsightly pieces of wind torn, rain soiled posters from eye-level vision.

Several areas in Monroe County are now free of these signs, while not entirely, almost entirely. However, the major improvement is on N. Courtland St., once almost covered by these signs, now almost entirely free of these unsightly blemishes.

We wish at this time to thank publicly those candidates who removed the signs in question, just as we criticized them for leaving the posters in full view long after the primary election became history.

This is just another example of cooperation needed to make our community a better place in which to live.

Congressional quiz

Manpower programs

The recent report of the Kerner Commission on Civil Disorders listed the high rate of unemployment and underemployment as the main grievance of the ghetto poor. This quiz will test your knowledge of existing manpower programs and proposed developments in this area.

1. In his Jan. 23 manpower message to Congress President Johnson requested: (a) a massive new program which would cost $15 billion over a three-year period; (b) no new legislation; (c) a 25-percent increase in fiscal 1969 funds to identify 500,000 'hard-core unemployed' and find jobs for 100,000 by July 1969.

LBJ may visit Russia

NEW YORK — The United States is at war with the Soviet Union and its equipment in Vietnam. It is at peace with the Soviet Union on the opposite side of the world.

Russian-built mortar shells were looping into Saigon and its vital airport at the very moment Ambassador Dobrynin and Dean Rusk were signing the new U.S.-Soviet consular agreement.

In the United Nations, the Soviets and the Americans have taken the initiative to check the proliferation of nuclear weapons. We have solemnly agreed not to stand for any nuclear monkey-shines in space.

The New York-Moscow commercial air link will soon be forged.

Now there is talk that President Johnson may soon be invited to visit the USSR.

If such an invitation is forthcoming, he will not have to be asked twice. The President has many "musts" on his schedule for his remaining seven months in the White House.

He is eager for the historian of the future to recall that during that period a cease-fire was forged in Vietnam, tranquility was restored between black and whites, the U.S. dollar firmed up, poverty at home was diminished, and relations with Russia clearly improved.

Big order

It's a big order, but not insurmountable. A successful trip to Russia would definitely be what Madison Ave. used to call a plus.

In the 35 years of our diplomatic recognition with the Soviet Union the men in the Kremlin have seen fit to invite only one American president to visit them—Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He came close, but no cigar.

Plans for his trip a repayment of Khrushchev's trip to this country a year before, were virtually complete. He was to be given the keys to the Iron Curtain. His tour of the USSR would be the most complete one any American had known. It would take him from Leningrad all the way to Vladivostok. He would speak to the Russian people six times on television and radio.

The speeches were all written — mostly by Dr. Kevin McCann, president of The Defiance College of Ohio. The State Department had purchased the gifts he would present to Soviet officials, including a plastic motor boat for Khrushchev to use on the lake that bordered his Dacha outside of Moscow.

Summer safety

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON—A man who lost his son in a summer camp boating accident has spurred Congress into considering a safety law for camps.

When Mitchell Kurman of Westport, Conn., investigated his son's death he found that basic safety precautions had been neglected. He also found that many states do not set safety standards for children's camps.

Kurman appealed to Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff (D-Conn.) for federal legislation. Members of Ribicoff's staff started investigating the need for a federal camp safety law.

They found that about six million children go to camp each year. Some states have strict regulations governing children's camps. Nineteen states had no regulations at all, the investigators were told.

A youth camp safety bill (S-1473) introduced by Ribicoff may make it easier for parents to judge the safety of children's camps. The bill requires the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to draw up safety standards for youth camps. Standards would probably include qualifications for counselors, safety procedures for water sports, rifle ranges and horseback riding, sanitation regulations for kitchen and other camp facilities and provision for health care.

Camps that met federal standards, and were certified by their state as in compliance, would be encouraged to advertise the fact.

The responsibility for inspecting children's

There would be a preliminary meeting with Khrushchev at a Summit Meeting in Paris, along with Gen. Charles DeGaulle and Harold MacMillan—then the great trip to Russia and the reaffirmation of the previous year's rosy "spirit of Camp David."

But on May 1, 1960, as bags were being packed for Paris and beyond, we committed a ghastly gaffe. U-2 pilot, Francis Gary Powers, working for the Central Intelligence Agency at a seecrezy-laden Turkish air base, took off for a picture-taking, radiation-sniffing flight across the heart of the USSR. It was too nice a day to miss, the CIA seemed to be saying. Powers and other U-2 pilots had done it many times before without incident.

Hit by missile

A Sam missile nailed the U-2 at 68,000 feet over Sverdlovsk, deep inside the Soviet Union. It is a highly industrialized city rarely opened to foreigners. (It once was named Ekaterinburg, and was the site to the murder of Czar Nicholas and his family in 1918.)

The first reaction of the State Department to Moscow's angry announcement that it had shot down the spy plane and captured the pilot was monumentally stupid. The plane must have been on weather reconnaissance mission, spokesman Lincoln White said, and drifted by accident across the Russian border.

Then Moscow dropped the other shoe—the distance between the border and interior Sverdlovsk, the recovery of the spying equipment, the admissions of the pilot, etc., etc. We had been caught red-handed. Eisenhower went to Paris shortly after that and was roundly insulted by Khrushchev before the Summit Meeting could be called to order at the Elysee Palace.

The invitation to visit Russia was withdrawn. Before he left Paris, Khrushchev held a raucous news conference at which he ranted and raved and threatened to throw us out of Germany. Beside him, as he fumed, sat the forbidding figure of Marshal Rodion Malenkovsky, his minister of defense.

Seven years later, Kossygin came to America to meet with LBJ. Now LBJ — despite the war in Vietnam—may go to Russia, and be remembered as the first U.S. president to make it.

And, who knows? Kossygin might just wind up with that plastic motor boat.

Legislation for camps

Members of Ribicoff's staff told Congressional Quarterly that pressures on the states, to set up inspection programs would probably come from the camps themselves. They would be anxious to advertise the fact that they met federal safety standards.

Support for legislation

The youth camp safety bill has the support of all major camping associations. The largest is the American Camping Association (ACA), whose member camps provide camping for about 1.75 million children a year. Most of the camps that belong to the ACA are run by organizations such as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, 4-H Clubs, church and charity groups.

The Association of Private Camps, which represents profit-making camps, also endorses the bill.

Although the youth camp safety bill has many supporters, final action on the bill seems unlikely this year. Senate hearings have not yet been planned, although the bill's sponsors hope that some action will be taken this year.

In the House, hearings are planned on an identical bill introduced by Rep. Dominick V. Daniels (D-N.J.). The fate of the bill may depend on how long Congress stays in session.

Collection of non-fiction

The Day I Met A Lion, by MacKinlay Kantor (Doubleday $5.95).

A selection of non-fiction articles by the Pulitzer-prize-winning author of "Andersonville," distilled from a lifetime of experience and published in various magazines over the past 30-odd years.

The collection includes stories drawn from Kantor's Iowa boyhood and from his experiences as a correspondent covering bomber operations in World War II; from his earliest struggles as a writer and from the life he led in Europe and America while writing "Andersonville."

Chronologically, the articles range from "First Blood," published by The Colophon in 1937, to "The Larks of April," which appeared in the Des Moines Sunday Register in 1967.

Both pieces have to do with America's entry into World War I. "Blood" recalls an anonymous poem Kantor wrote about the first man from his home town to be killed in France (the first of his work to see print); "The Larks" contrasts the America of 1917 with the nation as it stands today.

Over the past 40 years, Kantor has written 30 novels, including "Glory for Me," which inspired the prize-winning film, "The Best Years of Our Lives." He also has written three juveniles, a book of verse and four non-fiction works, of which "Lion" is the latest.

The pieces collected here radiate a warmth and enthusiasm which make them enjoyable — and sometimes very touching — reading.

Golden age of life

The Golden Age, by J. Paul Getty (Trident Press $5.00).

Retirement years can be as rewarding as you want them to be, according to one of the world's few billionaires.

Getty "had it made" when he was 24. He retired for a year but was driven back to work by boredom. Now at 75 he knows how to live and savor life to the fullest.

At retirement from the daily grind, the modern American can and should start a new life, Getty says. He has earned a chance to write his own ticket. He has ample experience and skill. He has the time. If he plans well in advance he can have the money too.

Getty's book is full of good counsel and encouraging ideas based on his own long and eminently successful career.

Story of bull fighting

Or I'll Dress You In Mourning, By Larry Collins and Dominique Lapierre. Simon & Schuster. $6.95.

Spain's controversial, but most popular, bullfighter is the main subject of this high pressure report, with what the authors call "the new Spain" as the secondary subject.

The matador is El Cordobes, whose real name is Manuel Benitez; born in 1936, on the eve of the Spanish Civil War, in a novel, obsessed from the age of 14 with the idea of gaining fame in the bull ring; a stealer of oranges and an illegal fighter of range bulls by moonlight, as a youth, with a record as a juvenile delinquent; an illiterate, stubbornly dogged, often starved, follower of the ring for years, until finally in the summer of 1960 he caught the public fancy as a very daring performer; in the last few years so popular that he is enormously wealthy. Recently in the news reports when a rival charged he was fighting tame bulls; a man who scoffs at the traditional grace and skill of the ring; a man whose critics say he is more interested in grandstanding and showmanship than in the fine art of the corrida.

By detailing El Cordobes' life to the full, the writers have presented Spain of the last 30 years as a place of grinding poverty, medieval oppression and venal corruption, topped off by a sudden exposure to such contemporary amenities as television, plastics and traffic jams.

The story is told in the same breathless, searching, graphic style that marked the Collins and Lapierre book, "Is Paris Burning?" The reader may feel that the drama has been heightened a bit, but the fact remains that the story is gripping.

Collection of spies

Some of My Favorite Spies, by Ronald Seth (Chilton $4.50)

Capsule biographies of 12 spies, from Elizabeth I's titled spy-master, Sir Francis Walsingham, to Russia's modern Gordon Lonsdale, whom Seth labels "The Careless Spy."

The author, himself a British spy during World War II, takes a clinical look at the characteristics that make good spies and bad ones. The most interesting chapter are those that deal with spies long dead—perhaps because the careers of the more recent ones have been so thoroughly covered in newspaper and magazine articles as their covers were blown.

Some of the unlikely people who became spies included Daniel Defoe, author of "Robinson Crusoe." Defoe was an ex-convic when he drew up plans for a secret service that became Britain's first organized spy network. Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout movement, also spied for Great Britain. One thread that runs consistently through Seth's book: a spy's best ally is his common sense, and the "security" emphasized in both fiction and non-fiction on the subject is just a combination of common sense and self-discipline.

Will we also grow?

The grass has begun to grow. Another week and the scars of sod on the grave will blend and no one will be able to tell where it was dug. The sun is bright and hard on the hill and the little crosses stand at attention. They put more than Robert Kennedy down in that cool clay. The wind swept away the stiff leaves of a political machine.

The merciless Kenneth O'Donnell is gone. The mathematician of the ballots, the one-time friendly bartender, Lawrence O'Brien, hopped the fence in the wrong direction. David Powers, the bald and lovable raconteur, was assistant to the National Archivist. His name is gone from the lobby directory. Ted Sorensen, who built the monumental phrases of John and Bobby to utter — quo vadis?

The jolly poker player, Pierre Salinger, has lost one too many hands. Schlesinger, the pouting cherub who wanted to write of living history in the White House, speaks softly of the dead. Dick Goodwin, Sargent Shriver, Ralph Dungan, Ted Kearland, all those young mop-heads in the office on "I." St. know that there is enough oxygen to last until January 20. But what of the 21st?

All the bright lieutenants are without a captain. They know now — or they will soon — that they did not write history; they unsnapped the leash on the nation's emotions. It isn't a sick society, as some say. It is a people that has learned to weep for itself; a spoiled child.

Orchestra mute

The orchestra of men is mute. The reeds, the bows, the sticks lie on the music racks. For eight years, they played a wild rigadeon. It was magnetic, hypnotic. The American people became so personally involved with the Kennedy family that, ironically, the funeral train may win a television Emmy. At what point did we begin to tear the clothes off a Presidential candidate? He was on the floor beside the kitchen and he looked up into the tin frightened face of the woman he loved and he whispered: "How bad is it?"

The cool darkness descended upon him as he closed his 42 years on earth with a question. How bad is it? For him it was very bad; a bright light, loved and despised, was extinguished. For us, it was worse. We began to realize that, in our affluence, we are a crude and violent people. We kill.

Jack, Bobby, Martin, Rockwell — Rockwell? Are we permitted to count a fascist among the dead? Oswald? Has anyone sent a message on the Hot Line to heaven so that God will know the difference between the good guys and the bad guys? Good guys are always deadlier than bad guys.

For five years almost, our fingers have been tracing the lines in the stricken faces of Kennedys. We know them better than we know our second cousins. We watch their children grow; we watch their sons die. In the practical field of politics, Bobby didn't stand much of a chance of being elected president. If he returned now, for just a moment, he could be elected unanimously. This isn't a thinking nation; it's a weeper.

The casket came up that hill in the dark of night with the summer lightning silvering the ribbon of the Potomac. My eyes were on a boy. He was skinny and tired and he shook the hair from his eyes and bent his hands back because he wanted to help carry his father the final few feet. He tried hard to keep his head up. He was a Kennedy.

Cushing didn't make it. He christens them, he marries them, he buries them. He fights on, the uncompelling Prince of the Church whose asthma clutches the fluttering heart. He is the rare priest who seldom uses the word humility because he lives with it. He sat on the train in Union Station and he tried to get up, but the doctors pushed him back.

Lyndon Johnson seemed ashamed to have outlived those who tried to kill him politically. Teddy Kennedy, tall and square-jawed, stood protectively over Ethel, as Bobby and Jack would have him. Not too long ago, they needed him with laughter as older brothers do. Teddy is the last Kennedy brother to stand on that grassy hill.

We blame ourselves but we are not to blame. Americans murder one person every hour. It is as common as rain. When a good man is killed, his name is inconsequential. The material thing is that we are going to have to try harder to grow up; to become responsible adults. There must be a stronger impulse than to watch a train creep for nine hours.

The grass on that hill will grow. I wish with all my heart that I could say as much for us...

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

Cars on the Long Woods Road on Wednesday morning may have been surprised to come across a scene which might have been of Chinese women working in the rice paddies at Glen Brook Country Club the other morning.

It wasn't just the women picking up golf balls during the clinic. And the reason there was such a large turnout is that with the wet weather, the scores have been soaring and everybody decided she must be doing something wrong.

The weatherman seems to have been doing something wrong, too. Almost worse than the soaking downpour is having a leaky sky which doesn't even offer the relief of drama, just wet feet and over-flowing cesspools.

Rained-out picnics, wet sandboxes, unweeded gardens, uncut lawns, and lots of mosquitoes—it's enough to dampen any enthusiasm, but not that of the Monroe Council of Republican Women. When the rains descended and the floods came just as they were packing their baskets for the picnic at the river honoring Judge Fred W. Davis, they kept right on going, taking their picnic baskets, their picnic clothes and their picnic spirit to the YMCA.

This made for an informal party with none of the stiffness or self-consciousness that sometimes makes it difficult for the guest of honor. And Mrs. Foster Minnich has the cottage at the river all cleaned up and ready for company.

The depressing effect of so much wet weather depends on whom you're spending it with, I guess.

Judge Fred Davis honored by council

STROUDSBURG — More than 85 members of the Monroe County Council of Republican Women and their husbands turned out to honor Fred W. Davis on Wednesday night, despite the fact that the outdoor picnic they had planned for the Foster Minnich home along the Delaware was rained out.

The supper was transferred to the YMCA, including the picnic spirit. Special guests at the supper were Judge Davis' family including Mrs. Davis; his secretary, Mrs. Earl Williams and her husband; court stenographer Ray Mohrbach and his wife; and law clerk William Sheaff and his wife.

Republican County chairman, Dr. Evan Reese, introduced the guests and the speaker, Judge Davis' successor on the Monroe County bench, Judge Arlington W. Williams.

Paying tribute to the example and accomplishments of Judge Davis, Judge Williams also included many lighter incidents of their long association from the time Davis first ran for district attorney in the county.

He also read letters of tribute from judges who had been closely associated with Judge Davis; Judge Edward Little, Judge James Rutherford and Judge Clarence Bodie.

Judge Davis was made an honorary member of the Monroe Council of Republican Women and also was presented with a silver tray bearing the inscription "Judge Fred W. Davis, 1945-67", the dates of his service as local judge, by Mrs. Foster Minnich.

In responding, Judge Davis thanked the council and said "I guess you might call me a happy man, with work I like to do best, the health and strength to do it, and surrounded by friends like you at home."

He explained that according to the new Supreme Court ruling he could be assigned to serve as judge in any court in the state, and has been kept busy "moonlighting".

The affair was planned by Mrs. Clifford Heller, who also presided at the meeting.

Chairman Reese read the resolution for party unity adopted by the national committee and also urged a continuing drive for Republican registration for the November election.

Frank Gochal, vice chairman of the Republican Committee, announced the annual Republican County family picnic for Aug. 25 at Saylor's Lake from 1 to 9 p.m.

Blotting transmission.

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP) — Islanders on Skye off the Scottish coast say Russians transmissions are blotting out the British Broadcasting Corp. from their television screens. Instead of BBC shows, they're receiving band and ballet music and incomprehensible messages in Russian, broadcast from a fleet of Soviet trawlers out in the ocean.

CONTRACT BRIDGE By B. Jay Becker

You are South, neither side vulnerable. The bidding has been:

South West North East
1♥ 2♣ Dble Pass

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

- ♠A J 4 ♥K Q J 10 9 5 3 ♦7 2 ♣3
- ♠A 6 ♥A Q 8 7 4 ♦K Q J 3 ♣7 4 2
- ♠A J 8 2 ♥K Q J 6 4 ♦A Q J 5 ♣—
- ♠3 ♥Q J 9 7 3 ♦A K C 7 2 ♣K 5
- ♠A K 9 ♥A Q J 10 7 5 ♦K 8 3 ♣9

1. Two hearts. Partner's double is for business and he probably expects to beat two clubs two or three tricks, but he is presumably counting on you to take three defensive tricks.

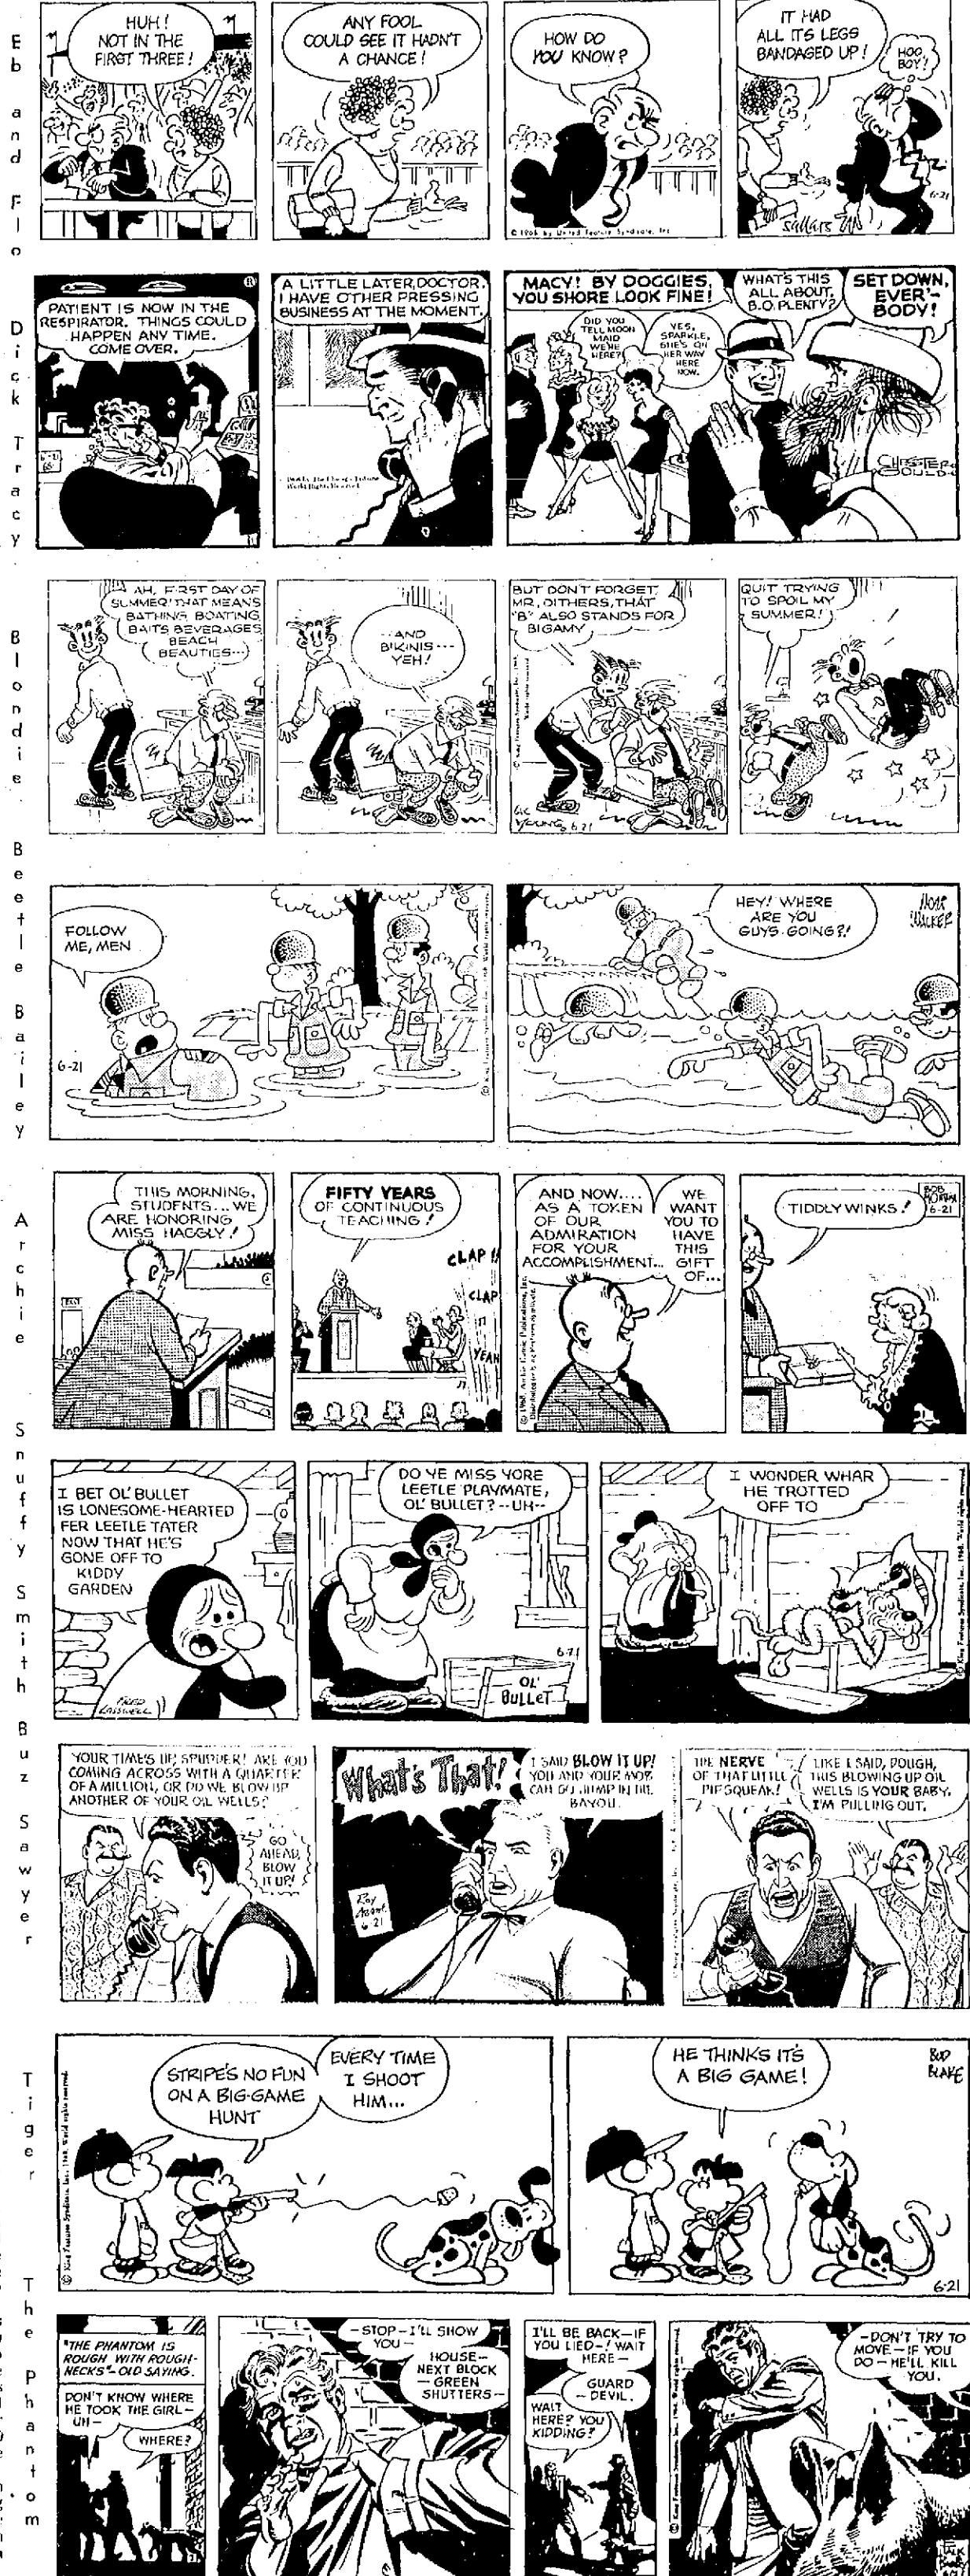

2. While it is true you have the proper values for an opening bid, you should not stand for the double because your hand is clearly the offensive type and lacks the defensive values generally associated with an opening bid.

3. Pass. Here you have the double out, not because you think the contract cannot be defeated—West can hardly make two clubs doubled—but because a game is virtually certain and a slam is a distinct possibility. The penalty you can exact at two clubs doubled is unlikely to compensate for the game or slam you may score.

4. Pass. Here you accept the double, despite your unexpressed distributional values, because your opening bid is completely normal from the standpoint of high-card values. The K-x of trumps are especially valuable on defense and should lead to a juicy penalty.

5. Three hearts. Game is extremely likely and you indicate this by jumping to three hearts. Again you take the double out because it is very doubtful that the potential penalty would repay you for the game in hearts with 100 honors you can probably score on the hand.

In general, you do better in the long run by respecting partner's doubles, but, despite this, you should treat each individual double as merely a suggestion, not a command.

Erma Bombeck

Parents impossible

An English assignment by my daughter the other night wrung a confession out of me which is almost un-American.

"Elizabeth Barrett Browning always made me a little sick to my stomach," I said. "She reminded me of a politician's wife standing at her husband's elbow grinning adoringly like she had horse feathers in her underwear. I only said I like her so my English teacher would think I was a sensitive girl."

"Don't you think it was romantic the way she wrote, 'How do I love thee? Let me count the ways?'"

"That isn't love," I said. "That's worship. Love is a lot of little things that are basic."

"Like what?" she countered.

Many ways

"Well, you love a man who can teach you how to drive the car without giving you a karate-chop for stripping the gears. Or a man who proposes so awkwardly he says, 'Do you wanta get married...or what?' Or a husband who doesn't tell his Mother how he broke his tooth eating your white sauce."

"You love a man who doesn't faint, leave town or hang one on when you tell him you're going to have a baby. Or a thoughtful man who won't drink coffee or fry bacon in the house during your first three months."

"You love a man who will take out the garbage even though he's a college graduate. Or a man who isn't ashamed to wash a dish or change a diaper. You love a man who will stick by you when you have the mumps at 24, or says you're beautiful when you have a tooth pulled."

You love a man who laughs at your joke—everytime you tell it—and a man who smiles at your Mother.

"You love a man who says his old girl friend looks frumpy. Who doesn't wait until Christmas eve to put up a Christmas tree. Who doesn't talk about money during dinner. Who lies about his vacation with the 'boys' and says he's glad to be home. Who says at least once a year, 'You want to dance?'"

"You love a man who brings you a box of punch and grow tomato seeds when it wasn't even on the grocery list. A man who has the decency not to laugh about your 40th birthday. A man who knows when to be amorous, when to keep silent, when to smile, when to be on time, when to be late, when to get his wife out of the house before she falls out of her tree."

"That's not very romantic," my daughter groaned. "Didn't you ever write any poetry to Daddy in college?"

"I certainly did. One went, 'I'd rather have you than a million dollars.'

I'd rather have you than Herbert Hoover's collars. You're neat and clean and brave and true,

I'm not getting any younger; neither are you."

(If the answer is yes, meet me at my locker.)"

She shook her head and went back to Elizabeth.

Taxes may be staggering, but they never go down.

Historical sites are surveyed

EAST STROUDSBURG — An inventory of historical and architecturally unique structures within Monroe County is being made this year by the National Park Service, East Stroudsburg.

Albert Dillabunt, historian for the Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area, said Thursday that the unique structures will be measured and photographed and then placed on file with the Library of Congress.

The structures will be picked out by a historic American building survey team. Dillabunt said this program started several years ago and was designed to make permanent records of unique buildings throughout the nation.

The first house which the survey team will measure is the Elvin Rouch home on the River Road, Shawnee-on-Delaware.

A total seven structures were measured and photographed last year. Among them was the Zion Evangelical Church in Smithfield Township which is within the Tocks Island Reservoir flood zone. The Rouch house is also in the flood zone.

Commissioners study recommendations

Reassessment plans offered

STROUDSBURG — Two possible methods of revising assessments in Monroe County were presented Thursday to the County Commissioners by their Tax Study Committee.

Warren Loney, committee chairman, and William Fetherman, chief assessor, presented the committee's report. The report recommended one of two plans:

A reassessment by an outside firm which would be a complete review of all land and buildings. The estimated cost is eight dollars a parcel or $320,000.

A reevaluation by the Monroe County assessors office using land values according to use of the land and adjustment to cost of construction or improvements. Loney estimated the cost of this at about $50,000.

According to the report, in the county's present assessment system, "uniformity is not in balance", "market values used for assessment purposes are not realistic", and "the system is not flexible enough to adjust to changing market values."

The assessor's reevaluation plan would include new aerial photographs of the county at a cost of about $8,000, a revised assessment manual on both land values and building values, the hiring of extra staff members to assist in the program, and rental of extra equipment.

The plan would also set either 1971, or two years after the revision of the manual, as the date of complete changeover to the new assessments.

Fetherman told the commissioners, "We need revision in areas not even existing in 1957 (the date of the last reassessment)." And Loney added, "If we don't change our values, the gap will get wider and wider. We are using 1957 market values."

Loney stressed that a main consideration, whichever plan is used, would be a revision of the manual.

The report recommended the manual be revised to include the following classifications: farming, the basic eight classes; lots with 15 per cent given on unimproved lots; non-farm usage, including acreage held by private hunting and fishing clubs, acreage in private estates, acreage used for recreation on a commercial basis, and land surrounding super-highway interchanges; and value added for improving building sites.

Fetherman added that while farm assessment is still based on slope, present assessment values run from $50 to $185 an acre. He said a recent average of price per acre on a large scale was $321.

Commissioner Atlington Martin said he didn't "think it fair" to compare land used for farming with land used for developing, however.

But Fetherman answered, "In our present manual, we have no place to go when land goes out of farm."

Elwood Hintze, chairman of the commissioners, said he thought doing a local reevaluation would be as effective as hiring an outside firm. He noted how much less expensive it would be.

Loney told him, "I think the committee feels it can be done locally."

The commissioners, Hintze said, would probably let the committee know their feelings within a week or ten days.

The discussion on regional versus individual control of water pollution in the Delaware River Basin also continued when Commissioner Nancy Shukaitis moved that the Monroe County Planning and Zoning Commission be sent a letter asking their position on the matter.

The subject of a June 26 meeting of the Delaware River Basin Commission in Philadelphia is water pollution. At the last meeting of the commissioners, Frank Dressler Executive Director of the Tocks Island Regional Advisory Council had indicated he would testify in favor of a regional solution to the problem. Mrs. Shukaitis disagreed with this stand, although Hintze backed Dressler.

Hintze said he had spoken to Marshall Reese, chairman of the commission, and Reese had said he was "not well-informed enough" on the matter to take a position, and he would like the situation left "status quo."

There was no second to Mrs. Shukaitis' motion, and she said that at the next commissioner's meeting, she would bring in a copy of her personal statement, which she would offer at the hearing if the commissioners did not want to participate.

In other business, the commissioner's approved a request from Lawrence Butz, director of Pleasant Valley Manor, for $362 worth of equipment for rooms currently being finished.

Mrs. Shukaitis reported on a Pleasant Valley Manor Board of Advisors meeting which she had attended. She said that moisture in the basement of the Manor was being drawn to the attic and causing asphalt on the roof to rise. The necessity of installation of ventilators to draw off excess moisture was discussed.

Martin reported on bridge inspection, which the commissioners made Tuesday. He said they had inspected 20 out of the 27 county bridges so far. Two bridges inspected Tuesday, one in Polk Township and the other in Tobyhanna Township, "are going to have to be replaced over a rather short period of time," Martin said. He said an estimated cost would be $50,000 for one and $80,000 for the other.

Hintze agreed, and noted "liquid fuel money will be scarce if we have to build two bridges. We do have problems."

and we will have to rebuild some bridges," Hintze noted that one of the bridges inspected had 1811 carved in an abutment.

Mrs. Shukaitis noted that Mrs. Charles A. Payke has been appointed new chairman of the advisory board to the Children's Aid Bureau. It was also noted that the salary of temporary clerk-typist Mary L. Freeman would be $71 a week.

Apartment building under way

EAST STROUDSBURG — Construction of a $1 million garden apartment project on Greentree Drive in East Stroudsburg began Thursday at 10 a.m.

The apartments, which are expected to be ready for occupancy by December, are being developed by Robert Kolenberg and Solomon Koppelman, both of Easton, who have formed the East Stroudsburg Development Corp. The project is designed to ease the housing shortage in the Stroudsburgs.

Response to the project, which is located near the Metropolitan Edison sub-station building has been near "overwhelming" according to C. Alton Jones, in charge of reservations for the project.

The two developers have participated in the construction of the Washington Court Apartments in Wilton.

On Greentree Drive in East Stroudsburg the complex will house 112 apartments in the price range of from $125 to $210 per month depending on size and facilities in the seven building plan housing 16 units each.

All utilities will be included in the price of the apartments.

Water Gap police chief to resign

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Charles Lepper, Delaware Water Gap Police Chief, confirmed Thursday night that he will resign from the post next week after only a little more than four months on the job.

Lepper, a former police officer in Nassau County, New York, was sworn in as the Water Gap's police chief March 15.

According to Lepper, now a resident of the Gap, two primary reasons prompted his intent to resign from the post.

Lepper cited long hours and lack of adequate personnel to aid in police work as the principle reasons for seeking a position out of the borough.

He said Thursday night that there was "no help in the town" and that he was "working seven days a week."

Parttime help

Lepper originally was aided by three parttime policemen, but, according to the chief, one has resigned, one intends to quit the position, leaving only one man in addition to himself to patrol the borough.

The new chief hinted at discontent during last month's meeting of borough council when he and Mayor Fred Decker disagreed on several points of how traffic should be controlled at the Hinson Plant.

Lepper also made references to salaries and questioned their basis during the session.

Lepper said Thursday night that he passed a letter of resignation to councilmen during the meeting but that no consideration was given at that time.

He reported that a subsequent three-man special meeting one vote favored accepting the resignation while the other two dissented. Lepper declined to mention those in attendance.

According to the chief he will officially re-submit his resignation Monday or Tuesday.

Borough Council President Steven Matos said Thursday night that council is aware of Lepper's intentions but said he was under the impression that Lepper was "reconsidering."

He said council has taken no steps at present to secure another officer.

Robert Leard of Pocono Summit has recently returned from June week at the United States Navy Academy in Annapolis, Md.

He was there as the guest of his nephew and attended his nephew's wedding following graduation.

Tuesday he received a card from the bride and groom. The card must have taken the long way to Pocono Summit as the bride and groom returned from their honeymoon more than a week ago.

Last Week on job

This is the last week for Wally Butz as he completes his official stand as principal of Pleasant Valley Junior-Senior High School in Brodheadsville.

After credited years in the education field, Butz becomes a partner with the Walter H. Dreher Realty Agency in Stroudsburg.

Same situation

When a woman referred to remarks made by Mount Pocono attorney Peter J. O'Brien as what "lawyer O'Brien said" during a meeting of the county inter-racial council the appeal was met with a few snickers that caused the woman to ask "Well that's his name isn't it?"

"Lawyer O'Brien sitting at the far end of the table eased the situation with a nonplussed "It was when I came in."

Highest increase in county

P.M. teachers given $500

SWIFTWATER — Pocono Mountain School District teachers were awarded the largest salary hike among the four county high school 1968-1969 salary increases Thursday by the Pocono Mountain School Board.

The board voted 6-2 to grant the teachers a $500 across the board increase. The salary hike gives a bachelor of science teacher with one year experience a salary of $5,600.

Board member James Manhart and former board president Dr. Anthony Holyn voted against the above adopted salary schedule.

Both Manhart and Holyn had previously voted in favor of a higher salary schedule for the teachers. This resolution was rejected by the board by a 6-2 vote.

According to Theodore Jarrett, president of the Pocono Mountain Education Association, the teachers unanimously accepted the adopted salary schedule.

"The school board granted our teachers a $500 across the board increase. Although this figure represents a compromise, we feel that it is a step in the right direction. Our schedule is now comparable to the surrounding districts," Jarrett said.

Jarrett thanked the board for the foresight in granting the teachers the increase.

"For a district to have quality, a quality staff is essential," he said. "In order to retain and acquire quality teachers, a quality salary schedule is also essential. We (the teachers) feel that the school board has taken a step in the right direction."

James Price, school board president said the salary increase puts the school district on a competitive basis and provides financially for the veteran teachers.

"The school district has utilized the funds which were available in our budget as well as the state funds which were allocated to the school," Price said.

"I feel that this is a fair salary schedule and that we've remained within the budget," Price added. "This carries on our philosophy of meeting the needs of good rapport with our teaching staff."

The salary schedule provides an $800 increase for teachers below maximum; a $900 increase for teachers with Standard Certificates at maximum and a $1,100 increase for College Certificates at maximum.

A teacher with a bachelor's degree and 14 years experience would receive $8,900 in 1968.

A teacher with a master's degree and 20 years experience will receive $10,100 in 1969.

The 1968-1969 starting teacher salaries at the three other county high schools are Stroudsburg, $5,400; East Stroudsburg, $5,700 and Pleasant Valley, $5,400. Although East Stroudsburg starting teacher's salaries are $100 higher than Pocono Mountain's, East Stroudsburg's hike represented an increase of $400, from $5,300-$5,700 while Pocono Mountain's increased $500, from $5,100-$5,600.

The truck went on its way with no injuries or damage reported by fire chief Robert Lesoine.

Auto skids on oil slick near Milford

MILFORD — Two men were injured in a two-car collision Thursday morning on Route 209 in Delaware Township with total damages estimated at $3,000, according to Milford State Police. One man was hospitalized.

Thomas L. Brown, 25 Pine St., Port Jervis is listed as fair to satisfactory in the St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis where he was admitted Thursday 1:45 p.m.

Brown was driving a medium sized truck north on 209 when he slid on an oil slick along the highway, lost control and crossed the south bound lane, striking a parked truck operated by James Chiesi of 4425 Henry St., Easton.

Chiesi was treated by his own physician, according to Eugene Dubiel, investigating officer.

Trooper Blystone Day proclaimed

Club honors heroic trooper

EAST STROUDSBURG — What started out as a routine patrol for Pennsylvania State Policeman Vernon R. Blystone, ended with a series of dinners, commendations, and awards.

But in between, came an alleged bank robbery, the death of one of those suspected, a narrow escape from death for the trooper, and his singlehanded capture, while wounded, of the two other suspects.

Trooper Blystone was at the Holiday Inn in East Stroudsburg Thursday to receive from the Pennsylvania Exchange Club their second annual "Policeman of the Year" award. It's the latest in a long series for him.

A tall, quiet, almost painfully shy man, Trooper Blystone had little to say about what has happened to him. He refused to even comment.

But his story sounds like something from the "Felon Squad."

On March 8, 1968, Trooper Blystone, Waynesburg substation, Troop B, on routine assignment blocked the getaway of three persons believed to have robbed a bank at Marianna, Pa., killing one of them in a gun battle.

The two others, one a woman dressed as a man, were captured with $10,003 being recovered from a paper bag in the bandit's car.

Blystone, 23, escaped probable death when a bullet smashed into his left hand as he held it in front of his heart while drawing his revolver.

He fired in return, killing Claude Geary, 34, alias "Chico" Valentino. Blystone was also fired upon by a second man in the car, Donald Townsend, 33, but Townsend and a woman companion, Mary Ann Barber, 28, finally surrendered.

Blystone, on a routine patrol when the armed robbery was reported over his radio, immediately headed for a predetermined roadblock point when he spotted a suspicious car and gave chase.

Geary, the driver, pulled over and walked back to Blystone's patrol car. When asked to produce his identification, Geary returned to his car, where he said he had left them.

Returning to the car, Geary came up with a gun and eight shots were exchanged. Two more shots were fired by the man in the back seat of the getaway car, smashing through the windshield of the patrol car and out the back. But the man and woman in the back finally gave up, and Blystone held them at gunpoint until help arrived.

Townsend and Mary Ann Barber have been turned over to Federal Authorities and are awaiting trial.

Blystone received the State Police Commendation Medal at a special ceremony held at the State Police Academy at Hershey prior to graduation ceremonies for 107 new state troopers.

Prior to the award to Trooper Blystone, Governor Raymond P. Shafer signed a Proclamation declaring June 19 Trooper Blystone Day and in the Proclamation asked the people of Pennsylvania to "accept this day as one in which they give public and private thanks to the continuing efforts of the Pennsylvania State Police for the services they daily perform for the people of this Commonwealth."

Blystone has also received the Distinguished Performance Award from the Greene County Court, as well as a Commendation from the Pennsylvania House of Representatives.

Pappas stops Redlegs

ATLANTA (UPI) — Milt Pappas, making his first appearance against his former teammates, recorded his first victory in nearly two months Thursday night and scored a key fifth-inning run to spark the Atlanta Braves to a 3-1 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Pappas, who was traded to the Braves following a dispute with the Reds' management over curtailment of play in the wake of the assassination of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, posted his first victory since April 27 and his third in eight decisions. He allowed seven hits in 5 2-3 innings.

Pappas had to be replaced in the sixth by Cecil Upshaw when he suffered a pulled muscle in his right thigh.

The Reds opened the scoring in the second when Vada Pinson doubled, moved to third on Tony Perez' single and scored on Leo Cardenas' single.

Joe Torre's seventh homer of the year tied it in the fourth, and in the fifth Marty Martinez and Pappas led off with infield singles. One out later, Tito Francona doubled to score Martinez and Pappas came home when Cardenas' threw wildly to the plate.

Cincinnati starter and loser, Gary Nolan, allowed all three Atlanta runs and suffered his second loss against as many victories.

Phils score pair in 1st; nip Giants

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Rick Wise scattered six hits Thursday night and Tony Taylor knocked in the deciding run with a first-inning single as the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the San Francisco Giants 2-1.

Varsity S upsets Roseto

BANGOR — Jerry Smiley's three-run pinch triple in the sixth inning was the big blow Thursday night as the Varsity S upset Roseto, 7-4, in the Northampton County American Legion League.

Smiley's blow, which scored Kutudis, Ed Strunk and Tim Walsh, turned out to be the game-winning hit, when Roseto added its final run in the bottom of the seventh.

Doug Miller gave up two runs in the first inning but settled down and picked up his second win in as many decisions. The Varsity S tallied its first run in the first on a two-out triple by Strunk and a single by Walsh.

The Phils jumped on Giant starter Ray Sadecki for two first-inning runs when Cookie Rojas opened the game with a double and moved to third on a ground out. Giant manager Herman Franks then ordered Sadecki to walk Richie Allen intentionally. However, Sadecki's first pitch, to Tony Gonzalez, was wild and Rojas scored. Taylor then followed with a single to left to score Allen with the second run.

Wise, who had lost four straight games, evened his record at 5-5 as he walked two and struck out six.

The only run off the Phillie righthander came in the sixth when the Giants scored a run.

McLain breezes to 12th

DETROIT (UPI) — Denny McLain held the Boston Red Sox hitless for two and two-thirds innings and, supported by Mickey Stanley's three-run homer, registered his 12th victory with a sparkling three-hitter as the Detroit Tigers defeated the Boston Red Sox, 5-1.

McLain, the American League's top winner, yielded successive singles to slumping George Scott and Elston Howard with two out in the seventh inning driving in Rico Petrocelli, who had walked. Reggie Smith singled in the ninth. The stocky right-hander struck out nine and walked two.

Stanley drove in four Detroit runs with his fifth-inning homer, following a single by McLain and a two-base error by Ken Harrelson on Dick McAuliffe's sharp grounder to first, and a seventh-inning double after Ray Oyler walked and was sacrificed to second by McLain.

The Tigers, who have now won nine of their last 13 games, scored their first run in the third off Boston starter Dick Ellsworth on a walk to Oyler, a sacrifice by McLain and a single by McAuliffe. Ellsworth left the game in the fourth inning with a pulled muscle in his left side and was charged with his fifth loss in 10 decisions.

Scott's single, which ruined McLain's no-hit bid, was a line drive over shortstop Tonya's desperate leap. Howard then grounded up the middle for the Red Sox' only run.

Grier Jones leader in NCAA golf

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (UPI) — Oklahoma State's Grier Jones fired a three-under-par 68 Thursday for a record-setting 36-hole total of 133 to take a two-stroke lead in the NCAA golf championship.

Arizona State's Sun Devils grabbed the team lead by a stroke over Oklahoma State while defending champion Houston faded into the pack.

The Sun Devils' four-man team was at even par 568 after two rounds. Following Oklahoma State came Florida State in third place with 572.

Jones, the Big Eight Conference champ, notched his nine-under-par 133 without a single bogey on the 7,100-yard New Mexico State course to surpass the NCAA 36-hole record set by Marty Fleckman of Houston in 1965.

Litts rolls to 12-3 win

EAST STROUDSBURG — G. H. Litts routed Detrick's, 12-3 in the East Stroudsburg Little League Thursday night.

Charles Deffenis led the winners with a single, double and triple in four at bats. Ron Schraeder gained the victory over Nolan.

Looking over Arnold Palmer's shoulder Ken Still (top) of Tacoma, Wash., waits to tee off from the third hole at the St. Georges course Thursday. At the end of the first day Still was tied for first place with Australian Bruce Devlin, both with 3 under par 67s. Palmer finished with a 6 over par 76.

Tied for third with 69s were defending champion Billy Casper of Bonita, Calif., Tom Weiskopf of Bedford, Ohio, Lou Graham of Nashville, Tenn., R. H. Sikes of Springdale, Ark., Orville Moody of Killeen, Tex., and Moe Norman of Giford, Ont.

Casper, leading money winner on the tour this year and winner of four tournaments, birdied each of the first two holes then settled into a string of pars before bogeying the 12th hole.

While Devlin had a deft touch on the greens, Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus did not. Nicklaus finished with 73, Palmer at 76.

"I made a few dumb mistakes," said Nicklaus, who had a total of 35 putts, three-putting two greens.

Nicklaus and Palmer were disappointed with their scores but they did not attempt to lay fault to the gusty winds that swept the back nine holes.

Only five players managed to better par on the back nine which offered little in the way of resistance to the 25 mile per hour gusts.

Still has picked up $14,265 in 19 tournament appearances this season. His best was a ninth place finish at Indianapolis two weeks ago.

Devlin is on the comeback trail, rebounding from a 1967 campaign that saw him earn only $11,732. He has already earned $32,983 this year.

Fairey's HR stops Pirates

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pinch hitter Jim Fairey's first major league homer in the 10th inning enabled the Los Angeles Dodgers to score a 3-2 victory which snapped Pittsburgh's nine-game winning streak Thursday night after the Pirates won the opener of a two-night doubleheader, 7-3.

Fairey, hitting for winning pitcher John Billingham with two out in the 10th, drove a Roy Face pitch over the right field screen and John Purdin preserved the triumph by retiring the Pirates in the bottom of the 10th. Billingham now is 2-0 and Face 1-2.

The Pirates had tied the score 2-2 in the eighth on a single by Maury Wills, who extended his hitting streak to 19 games, and a two-out triple by Gene Alley off rookie Mike Kekich.

Kekich pitched 5 2-3 hitless innings before Wills broke the spell with a single and scored on Alley's double. The 23-year-old southpaw also drove in one run and scored another during the Dodgers' fifth. He singled home Ken Boyer, who had tripled, and scored on singles by Willie Davis and Paul Popovich.

Steve Blass hurled 6 2-3 hitless innings in the first game en route to a five-hit victory, his fourth in six decisions. A double by Tom Haller spoiled the no-hit bid and touched off a two-run rally and Len Gabrielson added the Dodgers' final run with a ninth-inning homer.

Blass, who had two of the Pirates' 13 hits, singled and drove in a run during a four-run fourth-inning uprising which broke open the game. A walk to Donn Clendenon and singles by Bill Mazerowski and Alley loaded the bases and one run scored on a walk to Jerry May. Blass' single off drove in a second run, another scored on Popovich's throwing error and Gary Kolb singled home the fourth tally of the inning.

A walk to Kolb and singles by Willie Stargell and Maltby Alou had given Pittsburgh a run in the first and Mazerowski singled home Alou and Clendenon to close out the Pirates' scoring in the fifth. Don Sutton took the loss.

Blass retired the first 16 Dodger batters before Popovich drew a leadoff walk in the sixth. Following Haller's seventh-inning double, Ron Fairly singled to drive in one run and scored on a double by Jim LeFebvre.

After Luis Aparicio had walked and moved to third on a walk and a sacrifice, Wagner, who was traded to the Sox by Cleveland less than a week ago, got Chicago off to its biggest inning of the season by delivering a 425-foot drive into the right center field seats.

It was Wagner's first home run since last Aug. 2 against the White Sox.
